Telmo values the advantages of living in a society that makes everyday life easier. He believes in the equity and accessibility of public services for all citizens through the best user experience in the online world. Having previously contributed to education and youth work, Telmo is a strong advocate of automation and proactive services, so that people can focus on what matters - interpersonal communication, both professional and private - rather than getting caught up in bureaucracy.

As Counselor for the South Caucasus Environment at the Research for Georgia Briefing Centre, Telmo's aim is to support the dissemination of the South Caucasus Environment experience and build bridges to form a cohesive network of the interconnected societies in the South Caucasus region based on decades of know-how of our vision. Research for Georgia Briefing Centre is a body created in 2024 to develop and promote the Research for Georgia vision.
